CB channels in Australia legal channel designations

Below are the current CB channels in Australia. This list includes legal channel designations and commonly accepted uses. Due to current popularity we will list the UHF band first then 27MHz CB.

UHF CB Band

In the following list the first 40 channels apply to both old 40 channel and new 80 channel units.

If you want you can download our UHF CB channel list (new file for 2025 class licence, so counter reset to 0):

NOTE: With the exception of channels 5 and 35 (emergency channels), the repeater output and input channels can legally be used for “General use” outside of the coverage area of a repeater on that channel. However, under the right atmospheric conditions a UHF signal can travel hundreds of kilometres, reaching a repeater that you might not be able to hear. It is for this reason we recommend you avoid using channels 31 to 38 and 71 to 78 for normal conversations to help ensure you will not cause interference to some distant repeater you never knew existed!

In an emergency, dial 000. For police attendance, call 131 444. To anonymously share information about a crime or suspicious behaviour, contact Crime Stoppers.

If you see something that doesn't feel right, make it your business. Flag it anonymously with Border Watch. One small observation could help stop a much larger border crime.
